THE 1954 SAGA

FOREWORD

I am the class of 1954. Bloomfield College has been my home for four action-packed years. I remember lectures with which I disagreed; professors who stimulated my mind and incited intellectual explorations; friendships that developed as a result of association with classmates; cooperation among faculty, students, and administration.

But most of all, I recall a seed of understanding that was planted within me early in my college life. This seed, under conscious and unconscious cultivation, has grown and sprouted. It has become a philosophy of life--a faith for the future. It has made me rise above the drive for pure academic achievement. It has made me realize that success, or failure, during these past four years will not be determined by the scholastic accomplishments which I have attained, but by the application to life which I make, or do not make, of these past four years of experience.

On the following pages you will see my history of these years. You will see my classmates--some of whom having cultivated this seed now possess a full-grown faith for the future, some of whom are still searching for the seed, others who will never discover it. But proper recognition should be accorded all who have made the attempt.

DEDICATION

It is the usual custom each year for the graduating class to dedicate its yearbook at this time.

The "Saga" has been in past years dedicated to those who have been helpful to either the senior class or to Bloomfield College.

This year the senior class dedicates its yearbook to a man who has not only been helpful to the class as a whole and to the entire student body but a continual asset to Bloomfield College.

We take privilege in dedicating the "1954 Saga" to MR. JOHN M. WOODBRIDGE.

Mr. Woodbridge has in the past given freely of his time to the students who sought his advice and shall continue to do so in the future.

He shall always be remembered by the class of 1954 as a man who was always willing to help no matter what the problem.

Those who sat under him as students gained a wealth of knowledge and a great respect for him.

Mr. Woodbridge has always held high the ideals of Bloomfield College and has taught his students to do so.

Words fail to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to such a great and humble man.

This, then, is a small token of our appreciation to you, Mr. John M. Woodbridge.

When you walk off the platform with your diploma, do not suppose your education is over. Life in the world beyond the campus is a very effective, sometimes a very painful, teacher full of unannounced tests, day by day drudgery, and plenty of rewards for those who use their heads.

As you go, our hopes and prayers go with you. We believe in you because you have acquired a sense of integrity, the habit of sustained effort and personal responsibility.

In your struggle for success, do not forget that the only values that catastrophe can never touch are the riches of wisdom and character. Continue to cultivate them!

God bless you throughout your lives so that at your journey's end you may look back with a sense that it was well worthwhile.

JOHN AUSTIN

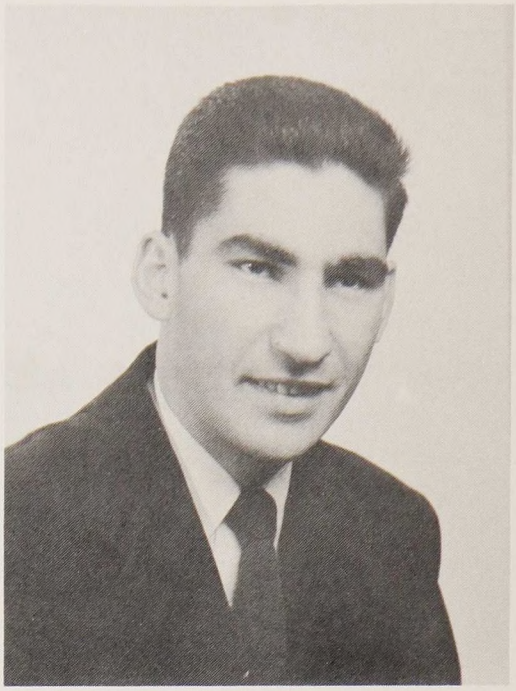
John's quiet, unassuming manner will be greatly missed when he graduates from Bloomfield College. In his own way John has contributed much to our institution during his college years. We know that wherever he might go, or whatever he might do, his sincere attitude will always be recognized as his most admirable trait. And as he prepares for the ministry, his faith and devotion will always win for him the love and respect of his friends. Our prayers for his success we know will not go unanswered.

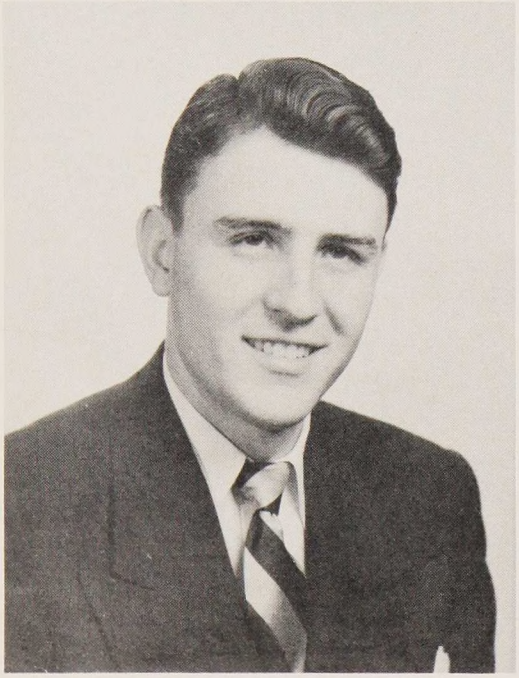
GARFIELD R. BROWN

Gar has been known around campus for many things, none the least are his abilities in the field of art, some of which is found in this book, and his efficiency on the baseball diamond. Commuting from Deer Park, Long Island, Gar looked forward to spending three outstanding hours in Prof. Taylor's seminar. His plans call for attending seminary in this area. After spending four years at Bloomfield, with Gar, one knows that he will assume his rightful place in the work of the church.

JOSEPH A. CLARIZIO

During the four years that the class has been together, Joe has assumed leadership responsibility and position. This was consumated with his election as treasurer of the B. C. S. A. Joe's dynamic spirit was reflected as he participated in varsity basketball and as he was captain of the team during his senior year. His further participation in many phases of campus life speaks for the loyal spirit which was found in Joe. His next step will be in the direction of science.





VERNON D. CLIFTON

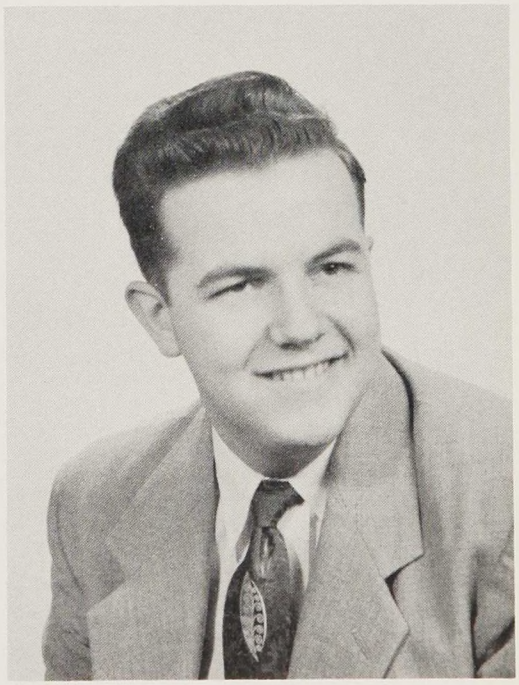
Two years ago Vernon Clifton came to Bloomfield College from Oakridge, Tennessee. Since then he has found his place in the chemistry lab busily looking through a test tube and making notes. Vernon continued to take an active part in the various activities of the college. Following graduation Vernon will continue to follow the field and the continuation of his education.

CLARENCE L. CREWS

During his stay here at Bloomfield, a day has never passed that Clar hasn't had a smile on his face, and a cheery "Hello" for anyone who happened to pass his way. A quiet fellow, yet a more genial fellow one could never find. Though his presence might not always be heard, it could always be felt and never overlooked. As he prepares to become an Army Chaplain, we know that he will achieve the same success which he achieved here at Bloomfield. His cheerful personality will assure him many friends wherever he may go.

GARRET DEN BRAVEN

Garret came to Bloomfield from the Newark College of Engineering. Almost immediately he took his rightful place in the membership of the Class of 1954. His interest and ability in the business field prompted the class to appoint him Business Manager of The Saga. He has done a noteworthy job in this capacity. Garret's contribution to the business world will be effective.

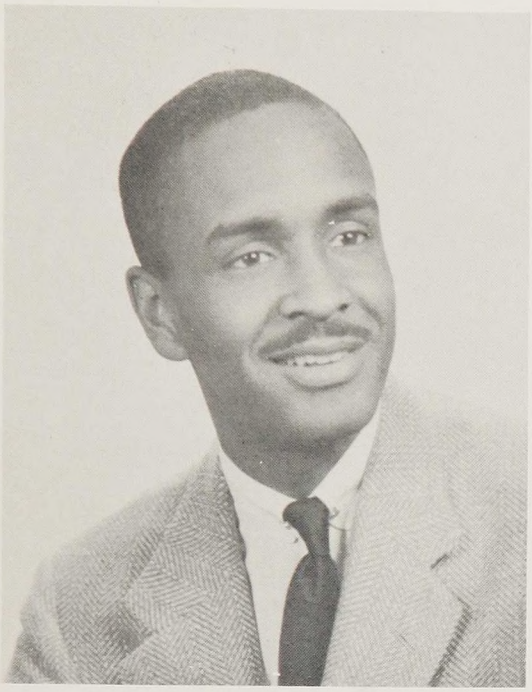


FAITH M. DeROGATIS

Wherever there was something to be done, there was Faith. Whether as a member of a committee, or as a chairman, or as an officer, or musician, Faith was ever willing to serve. Her contribution to the program at Bloomfield is beyond expression in words. The closest we can come is by gratefully saying, "Thank you." As a Director of Religious Education, her varied abilities will be most ably employed. With her success assured, we pray for her continued happiness and peace as a servant of our Lord.

DONALD H. FRANK

The many varied aspects of student life have been affected by the leadership of Don Frank. The student body recognized this leadership when they elected him vice-president of the B. C. S. A. During the four years, Don has headed or served on almost every committee. Strengthened by his firm convictions, Don has made a vital contribution to Bloomfield. He has been accepted as a theological student at McCormick Theological Seminary as he prepares for the ministry. Don undoubtedly will further use this leadership ability as he serves the church.



ALEXANDER R. GRANT

We shall always remember Al for the twinkle in his eye and the bounce in his walk. Active in sports and other activities, Al was always busy doing something or going somewhere. His jovial manner and "happy-go-lucky" attitude were most refreshing at the opportune time. When Al was around, everyone smiled. His ability to see the brighter side of life will attract many friends, but few enemies. As an English teacher, Al will be as well liked as he was here at Bloomfield College. We wish Al the best of happiness and success in all he does.

ROBERT K. HAYWOOD

Bob joined us mid-way through our college career at Bloomfield. Almost immediately he became one of us. In his quiet, assuming way, Bob has made many friends and won the respect of his classmates. He has actively participated in the collegiate sports program of both baseball and basketball. His teammates, recognizing his leadership ability, elected him captain of the baseball team in his senior team. Bob has been majoring in the department of business administration.

ANITA HESTER

Quiet, petite, assuming - all these attributes could be found in Anita. She has contributed to many phases of our campus activities. Many of her spare moments were spent in the library assisting the librarians. Anita's contribution to the classes here at Bloomfield have been of the highest calibre. She was an active member of this year's Saga staff, Anita will make a real contribution to whatever field she will find herself.

AARON HOGGARD

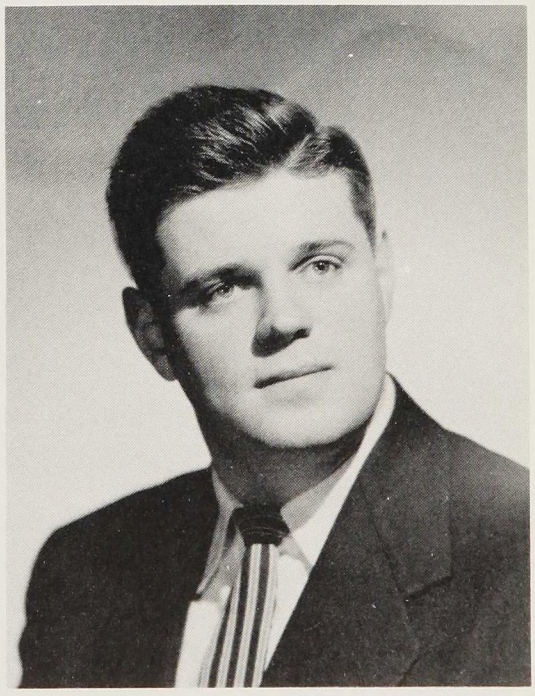
Aaron came to Bloomfield last year from George Washington University. He was a member of the Pre-Theologs and was very active in his home church. He has served as student assistant and has done a noteworthy job at organizing a junior church for the young people. His interesting experiences have added greatly to the Christian Education classes. As Aaron goes into seminary, he will take with him the good wishes of the members of his class.

MARILYN HORTON

One of the three female members of our class, Marilyn has also contributed to the enjoyment of our college days. She participated on the cheering squad, whose spirit was felt at every game. Marilyn also lent her voice to the soprano section of the College Choir. She also served as Secretary of our class and did much of the typing on this yearbook.

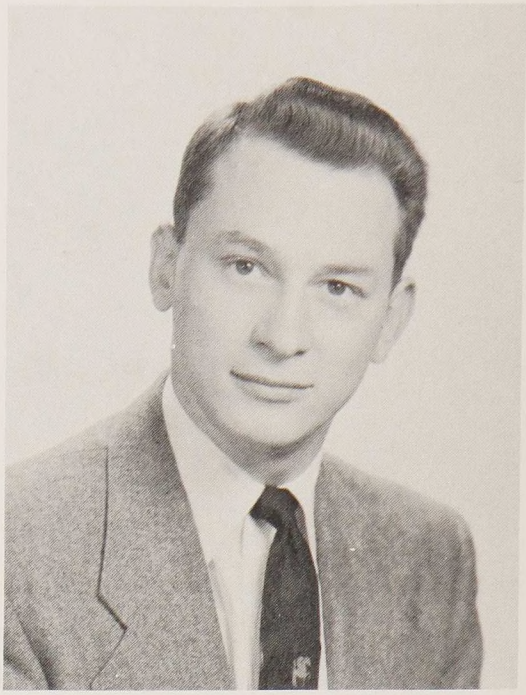
ROGER H. JOHNSON

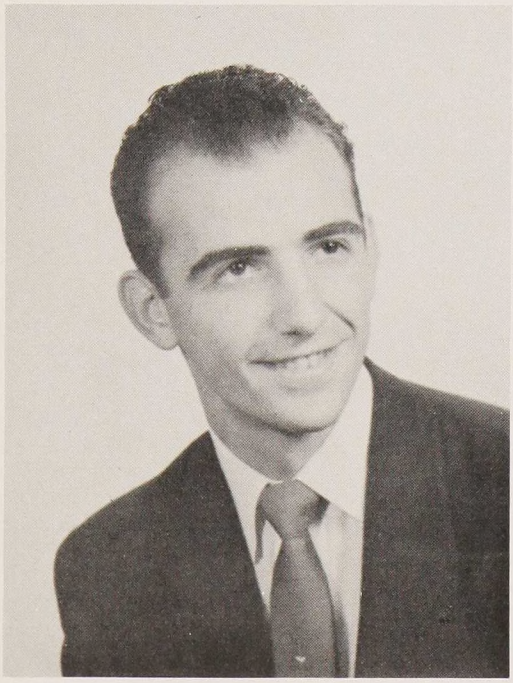
Roger, too, is one of the original members of the Class of 1954. During these four years he has contributed to most phases of student government and campus life. The pre-theologs have been enriched through his participation and the basketball team successful through his managerial efforts. He has served his church during his school days as a student assistant. Roger will continue to prepare himself for the Baptist ministry.



LAWRENCE C. KRAMPERT

Larry came to Bloomfield from Rutgers University, and we feel that Bloomfield's gain is Rutger's loss. Always willing to work wherever he was needed, Larry has served on numerous committees, has held several offices, and has contributed greatly to the work of the B. C. S. A. Because of his outstanding abilities and traits of character, he was selected as Editor-in-Chief of this yearbook. For its success and for many other achievements, we should express our appreciation to an extraordinary young man.





JOHN N. LoGIUDICE

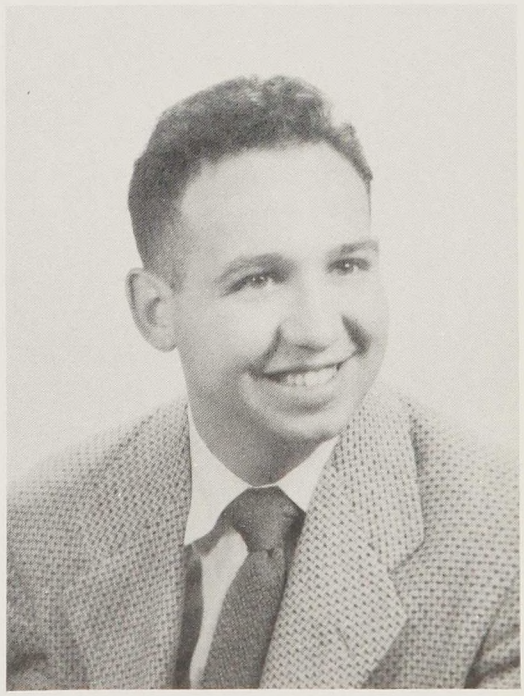
What with his studies, his sports, and keeping up with Nancy, John has been a very busy man at Bloomfield. But somehow he has still found time to serve on many committees, to hold several posts, and to serve his college in every possible way. His sincere devotion to the college exemplifys the character of John. As he goes forth into the business world we all know that John will secure his rightful position in the same manner that he obtained the high regard of all his friends.

BENJAMIN MCLAUGHLIN

Ben returned to Bloomfield this year after a year's experience in the business world. Through these years Ben has played an important role in the life of the student body. He was a member of the group who renovated Dikovics House and turned it over to the student association. It is this spirit- - exemplified in Ben - - that has built and prospered Bloomfield College. Ben will continue in the Seminary for his theological education.

RONALD P. MANUS

During his four years at Bloomfield College, Ronnie has participated in practically every phase of the religious life of the campus. His ready smile for everyone reflected his cheerful personality. He served as President of the Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship during his junior year and plans to continue his future endeavors in service to our Lord. Our prayers attend him as he begins a new and most important part of his life's work. May success and happiness be his.



DAVID NAWYN

Dave was little seen about campus except for classes, but his part in the activities of the Student Government has helped make our B. C. S. A. an active and important group. Married and supporting a family, Dave has made a real sacrifice to secure his education. A Pre-Theological student, Dave has been active in his church in Patterson where he serves as Church School superintendent. Dave's devotion to the Church will bring effective service to God as he prepares for the ministry.

GEORGE S. OTT

The four years that "Sherm" has been at Bloomfield have been years of service to the college and to his fellow students. Though greatly occupied with supporting his family, he has often worked in the background to help wherever needed. His selection as Co-Business Manager of this yearbook indicates that his undemonstrative service to the college has not gone unnoticed. In his preparation for the Christian ministry at Louisville Seminary, we are sure that God will be with him and his wife as they go forth in greater service of our Lord.

GEORGE PABOOJIAN

George truly filled the requirements of a diligent student. Devotion to one's responsibility was the keynote of his entire experience here at Bloomfield. His Christian words and deeds have made an indelible imprint upon Bloomfield. Although outside responsibilities took him from campus a great deal, nevertheless he served the class of 1954 and Bloomfield College in a noteworthy way. The experience of these four years at Bloomfield has been effective because George was numbered among us.

RICHARD PRUIKSMA

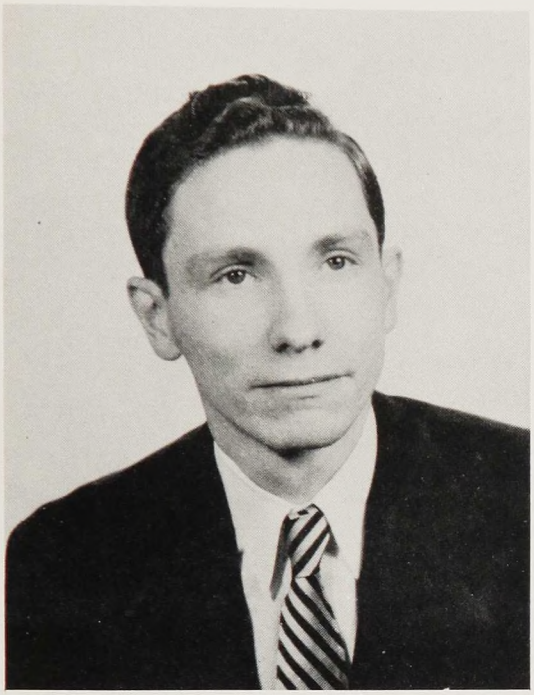
Dick has always tried to serve Bloomfield whenever possible, and has therefore made a great contribution in upholding the ideals and hopes of the College. As an active participant in numerous undertakings and activities, Dick has shown leadership ability which will supplement his other abilities and enable him to accomplish much as a minister for Christ. As he enters Western Seminary, we know that God is ever near guiding and directing him in all that he does. May his life be filled with all that is good in God's sight.

GEORGE L. RACK

George will be remembered for his loyalty and devotion to the standards of Bloomfield College. A highlight of his educational experience was his election as a delegate to the General Assembly during his junior year. An active member of Old First Church, Bloomfield, George is one of the youngest elders in the Presbyterian Church. This service to the church will continue as he prepares for the ministry at Bloomfield Seminary. Our prayers go with him as heundertakes this important work.

RONALD H. RATHJE

Coming to Bloomfield from Princeton, Ron's leadership ability was soon recognized by the class members. His intellect and keen knowledge was an inspiration to all. His mastery of courses like Greek will always be looked upon with great admiration. Ron was an active member of the pre-theologs and held leadership positions in this organization. Ron will enroll in Union Theological Seminary following graduation. The future of the church will be well blessed with leadership such as is found in Ron Rathje.



DAVID O. ROBERTS

Few words can express the contribution which Dave has made to Bloomfield College during these past four years. Name any committee or office and you can be sure that Dave has been a member or an occupant of that position. His service to Bloomfield was culminated in his being elected President of the B.C.S.A. this past year. We all know that as Dave prepares for the ministry at Union Seminary, he will exhibit the same excellent qualities of character which have made him a friend of all at Bloomfield College.

EDWARD J. ROBERTSON

John came to Bloomfield in his junior year and immediately became an active member of the class. Commuting every day to Long Island, John was able to participate in campus activities. He is interested in creative writing and his major here at Bloomfield has been English. An avid reader, John's contribution to his classes have been interesting and enlightening. John will follow his father's footsteps in the Reformed ministry.

HERBERT ROBLES

Another of the original members of the class, Herbie, has been one of the leading faithfuls in the class. Whenever a job was needed to be done, one could always be assured on Herbie's cooperation. He came to Bloomfield after serving with the U.S. Marine Corp which influenced his life here at Bloomfield. His efforts on the basketball court were an influence to the other members of the team. Herbie's cooperation and efficient participation will long be remembered by his classmates.

DONALD G. ROTH

During his four years at Bloomfield College, Don has served in various capacities wherever he was needed. As committee member, class officer, and team manager, Don has served Bloomfield with diligent perseverance and cooperation. His presence was vitally felt wherever he was and his ideas were always well received. We know that wherever he attends seminary, he will contribute greatly to the furthering of God's Will in this world. May our prayers strengthen him as he undertakes this most important task.

JOHN L. SALMON

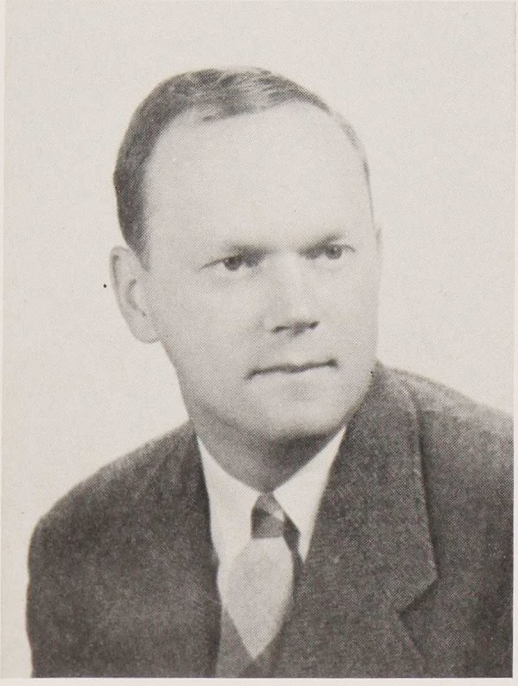
Anyone who thinks of Bloomfield can not help but think of John for he is the personification of that spirit which Bloomfield trys to engender in every student that attends this institution. His genial manner, deep faith and conviction, and his untiring devotion to all forms of service only partly describes this young man, whom everyone considers it an honor to have him as a friend. As a converted pre-medical student, we know that John will obtain unlimited success in his vocation as a Christian minister.

THOMAS SCHERM

Tom has not only been an asset to the Class of '54 but to the institution as a whole. He is one of those persons whose insight into the needs of the college brought action and results. Many of the class projects were spurred on by the initiative of Tom. A quiet student, Tom has in this manner accomplished a number of things for Bloomfield. The business world will receive an effective member in Tom.

EDWARD H. SMITH

We shall always remember the "Senator" for his chess-playing, his tropical fish, his hobby of photography, interest and service to the College through his presence on many important committees and in many, pertinent activities. As President of the Photography Club, the group has grown from its initial beginnings to its present position as one of the more prosperous clubs on the campus. His selection as Co-Photography Editor of this yearbook is a tribute to his ability and resoursefulness.



HAROLD W. STORY

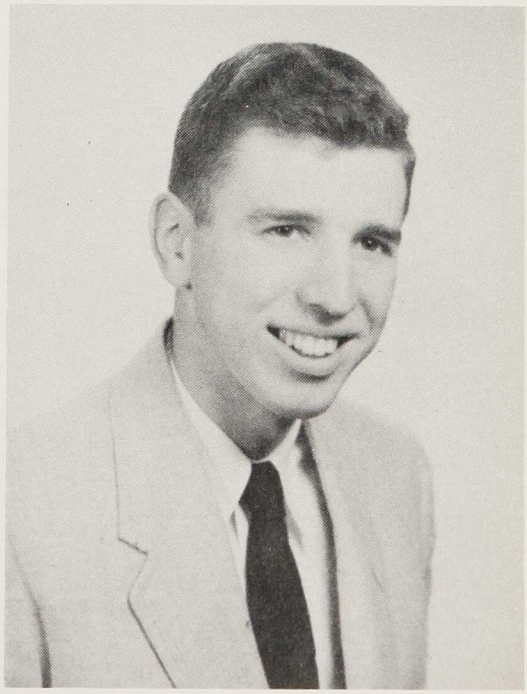
Though he entered Bloomfield College in 1944, Hal has been in and out of the Navy so often that his uniform hasn't had time to become too small. He has actively participated in many activities, and has revealed characteristics which persuaded his fellow to elect him President of the I. V. C. F. in his senior year. His interest in photography led his selection as Co-Photography Editor of our yearbook. Deeply interested in all forms of Christian service, he is primarily interested in Industrial Missions.

JOHN B. TAVAGLIONE

John came to Bloomfield after completing his seminary work in Philadelphia. His influence on the members of the class has been one of respect. To the entire student body, John's years of experience and Christian growth have been not only an inspiration but a help as we have been called upon to undergo the events of college days. John has been a real example of what can be the result of diligent study and much hard work. John will be up for ordination upon his graduation.

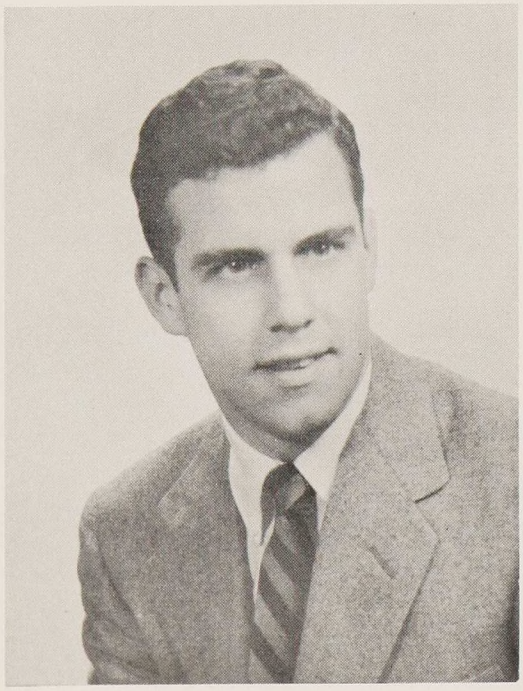
EDWARD VANDER HEY

In Ed we have a rare combination--athlete and scholar. Besides these attributes Ed's pleasing personality and willingness to help others at all times has made him one of the best liked students at Bloomfield. We of the graduating class consider it a privilege to have Ed as a fellow graduate. His election as Moderator of the Pre-Theological Club this year signifies the high esteem in which he is held by his fellow students. As a minister of Christ his service to our Lord will be of wide dimensions and great success.



JOSEPH S. VITIELLO

The red Ford has been as much a part of the class as has been Joe. One of the original members of the class, Joe's keen sense of humor and salesmanship have contributed to the well-being of the class. His means of argumentation especially in the religion classes were always highlights to the class as well as the professor. As well as pursuing the full time college course here at Bloomfield, Joe has been doing work at Seton Hall. His plans lead to work in the chemistry lab after graduation.



RALPH M. WATSON

Ralph's quiet and sincere manner in dealing with people will always be remembered by his classmates. He is one of those rare people who speak seldom but whose actions influenced many. Ralph enjoys traveling and his colorful slides have brought much pleasure to groups which have seen them. His avid interest in photography has resulted in the producing of an interesting series which have been presented to groups in this area. He intends to continue in the field of zoology.

EDWIN C. WELSH

Forever endeavoring to serve Bloomfield in whatever capacity that he was able, "Chuck" has participated in numerous activities while a student here at Bloomfield. His being chosen Editor-in-Chief of the "Minuteman" in his senior year indicates that the other students were aware of "Chuck's" many and varied abilities. We wish to express our thanks to "Chuck" for a job well done, and to pray for his continued success in his future endeavors. May he find happiness and satisfaction in all that he does.

IN MEMORIAM

FRANCIS LEWIS FENIMORE, JR.
1931-1952

One of our class members, Francis L. Fenimore, passed away after a long illness. While he was a student at Bloomfield for only two years he was well-liked by his fellow students. Francis had planned to prepare for the Christian ministry and up to the time of his death was making plans to take up this work. At this time of commencement we recall the memory of Francis and pay tribute to him.

DR. CHARLES FREDERICK DEININGER
1890-1953

The sudden passing of our beloved friend and professor, Dr. Deininger, on December 13, 1953 has left a vacancy which can never be filled. The influence which he had upon the students in both the college and seminary will long be remembered. His humbleness, generous spirit, loyalty, and guidance has aided many students during the years which Dr. Deininger was a member of the faculty. The Church as a whole as well as Bloomfield College and Seminary has suffered this loss. We pause to pay honor and tribute to Dr. Deininger whose life was the greatest sermon he ever preached. We, the Class of 1954, are honored and proud to have had the opportunity to be guided and taught by this faithful Servant of God.

TRIBUTE TO RELIGIOUS LIFE

"Those of us who graduate from Bloomfield College have a great asset which is not always found in other colleges and universities. We realize that we only take with us from this institution exactly what we as individuals have given forth in preparation, thought and consideration. As the time draws near when we will pass through the doors of Bloomfield College for the last time as students, fond recollections of happy memories linger within. This asset which we have is almost undefinable and yet we are aware of it almost constantly. It is the result which comes from placing the spiritual meaning of life at the very fore front of all that we had endeavored to learn and to do. This spiritual element did not remain in the chapel but was spread into almost every phase of our college experience. It is this spiritual awareness that we as sons and daughters of Bloomfield College take with us as we face the years ahead. We feel that this has not only added to the meaning of our education, but has served as an element of strength as we prepare to meet life.

In a day and generation in which we live when moral and spiritual values are hidden beneath a surface of degradation and strife, how grateful we the members of the Class of 1954 feel that we have not only been exposed to spiritual thinking but have been nurtured in a truly spiritual fervor that will serve as a bulwark and source of strength as we venture forth."
